And behold, there was a man named Joseph, a counselor; and he was a good man and a just. . . . This man went unto Pilate, and begged the body of Jesus. And he took it down, and wrapped it in linen, and laid it in a sepulchre that was hewn in stone, wherein man never before was laid. President Makes Plea

Hopes Raised For Steel Price Truce

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's conciliatory plea for restraint in price advances raised hopes today that another government vs. industry battle may be avoided.

No producer pledged its support of the President's plea for restraint. But none rushed to post even the kind of "selective" price increase which Kennedy did not oppose.

In a terse announcement the dominant producer, United States Steel Corp., said it is making "a continuing study of steel price matters" and will have no statement until after Easter.

The President declared his stand Thursday, two days after Wheeling Steel Corp. posted increases on six steel products and thereby raised the threat of a 1963 re-enactment of last year's struggle.

Kennedy's statement had an element of warning: He will again oppose any "general across-the-board increase." It was also, in effect, an offer of compromise: The government cannot object to "selected price adjustments up or down, as prompted by changes in supply and demand."

Kennedy urged "similar restraint" on the AFL-CIO United Steelworkers. But labor experts say that by agreeing to some price adjustments, he may have eased the way for a wage increase this spring. The union can call for wage talks after April 30.

There was widespread speculation in Congress and among lesser administration officials that Kennedy had taken quiet soundings which satisfied him that the steel managements would not make broad and inflationary price advances—which might in turn provoke high wage demands.

The stock market surged up and several steel issues hit 1963 highs. Analysts said investors apparently either thought Kennedy had given the steelmakers a license to go gunning for price boosts or, more probably, felt he had headed off another struggle with great steel corporations.

The latter kept silent, however, and out in West Virginia the 11th-ranking producer, Wheeling, still sat alone with its $6 a ton average increase on several major products.

Steelmen generally agreed that unless major companies post matching increases within the next week or so, Wheeling would have to rescind its new price schedule.

Kennedy did not indicate in his statement how he felt about Wheeling's price boosts. Neither Wheeling nor the rest of the industry could know how extensive "selected" increases could be before the administration would view them as "general" increases.

Whether for this reason or others—including the urgent question of competitiveness with foreign steel, now making deep inroads in the U.S. market—the steel companies were moving cautiously. Many were closed today, in observance of Good Friday, and like U.S. Steel were unlikely to act until after Easter.

Family Flees Depot Road Home Blaze

Mrs. Charles Phillis, her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Gail Phillis Sr., and her six children escaped injury Thursday afternoon when their farm home on Depot Road, three miles south of Salem, was considerably damaged by fire.

An estimate of the financial loss could not be made yet today; nor was it known if the large, grey-shingled house would be repairable. It was insured, and some of the household furnishings were saved. The exact cause of the blaze was not determined.

Mrs. Gail Phillis and her youngsters — Gail Jr., 11, Rick, 10, Diana, six, Mike, four, Jerry, two and Janet a seven-month-old baby — had just returned from a trip to Lisbon about noon when the fire was discovered by

Rusk, Dobrynin Meet Today

'Complicated' Talks Predicted on Berlin

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin renew their discussions on Berlin today amid signs that the search for agreement is likely to become more complicated.

U.S. officials thought it entirely possible that the Soviet Union would inject into the talks the issue of an American plan to arm an allied force, including West Germans, with nuclear weapons. The meeting, originally scheduled for last Saturday, was set for late afternoon. It is the second in the new series of U.S.-Soviet exploratory talks on the Berlin problem.

The present round was started at Moscow's suggestion but in the first meeting three weeks ago neither Dobrynin nor Rusk advanced any new ideas for solving the East-West dispute. Since then, the Soviet Union has protested to the United States and other allied nations against the proposed creation of a multilateral nuclear force under the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Rusk returned Thursday from the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization meeting in Paris. He conferred with other NATO foreign ministers and with French President Charles de Gaulle.

The NATO talks reportedly produced general agreement that the allies should go forward with plans to set up a nuclear forces command under the supreme allied commander in Europe, U.S. Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer.

One part of this force will be composed of three U.S. Polaris submarines in the Mediterranean. One such sub is already stationed and two others are going in soon. Another part of the force will be composed of British nuclear-armed Vulcan bombers.

True Bill Returned Against Amil Dinsio

LISBON — The Columbiana County April Grand Jury returned indictments against 22 persons Thursday afternoon in its report to Common Pleas Judge Raymond S. Buzzard.

Arraignments of the defendants is scheduled for April 22. In session since Tuesday, the jury examined 24 witnesses in 29 cases. It ignored five cases, continued one case and referred one to juvenile court. One case of second degree manslaughter is secret.

Prosecuting Atty. G. William Brokaw and Assistant Atty. Joseph Baronzi were in charge of the three-day investigation.

Among those indicted were Amil Alfred Dinsio, 26, of Poland, Harold J. Dailey, 32, and Daniel N. Marshal, 33, of Youngstown on charges of carrying concealed weapons. However, the grand jury ignored charges of possession of burglary tools against the trio.

The three men were arrested March 28 at the Turkey Run Inn east of Columbiana in a trap laid by Columbiana and Mahoning County sheriff's departments. Found in their car, in addition to two pistols and alleged burglary tools, were some 200 rare coins identified by Gene D. Costas, 67, of Weirton, W. Va., as having been stolen from him earlier that night.

The three men are under extradition bonds for their return to West Virginia to face charges in connection with the theft of the coins. Wheeling, W. Va., police also seek the return of the trio as suspects in a $5,100 robbery March 16 of the Allen Sales Inc., a vending machine business.

Also indicted were: Ruth S. Wright of Hubbard, possession of narcotics in East Palestine Oct. 10, 1962. John M. Wasson, 34, of Lawrenceville, Va., carrying concealed weapons Jan. 9. John R. Reed, 32, and George W. Sims, 34, both of Wellsville, breaking and entering the Superfood Store in Wellsville Jan. 27. Robert Keith Owens, 21, and Leroy Ray Walker, 19, both of New Cumberland, W. Va. operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent Feb. 4. Harold Dana Heater, 31, of Louisville, auto theft and operating a motor vehicle without the owners consent. Charles Mercer Jr., East Liverpool, burglary of the Keys Co.

Dr. Graham Is Speaker

Jesus' Cry on Cross, Holy Week Talk Theme

The fourth word from the Cross, "My God, My God, Why Hast Thou Forsaken Me," was the theme of the sermon by Dr. J. Paul Graham, associate minister of the host church, at the Thursday noon time Holy Week service at the First United Presbyterian Church.

Rev. Harold Deitch, pastor of the First Christian Church, presided at the service. Kiwanis and Lions Day was observed.

Dr. Graham advanced three main ideas on the text. First, it is felt that the reason for the bitter cry Jesus gave on the Cross was his extreme loneliness; second, that no one can absolutely answer why He felt this loneliness.

Some think that perhaps God turned His face away from Jesus for an instant, but others theorize that Jesus was in a state of deep depression due to His physical and mental sufferings, and from the depths of His weariness came His appeal.

The final point brought out by Dr. Graham was that in this dark hour Jesus still turned to His Father in prayer.

"We all have our times of depression and despair but should remember that God never turns away from us," Dr. Graham concluded.

Rev. William S. Longworth will use the "Last Three Words from the Cross," as his sermon subject at Good Friday services

Communists Welcome Pope's Peace Message

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Communist camp, where anti-religion is a basic belief, has given a rousing welcome to Pope John XXIII's encyclical "Pacem in Terris" (Peace on Earth).

Without waiting for word from Moscow, the major Communist parties of Western Europe greeted the Pope's call for peace and disarmament.

The encyclical and the reaction are symptomatic of the new spirit developing between communism and Roman Catholicism.

It has become increasingly clear in the past six months that the Vatican is attempting an entirely new approach to communism, displaying a willingness to talk with Communist governments on non-theological issues.

The Soviet world likewise has shown a desire for a new and less hostile approach to the church.

Denies Rumors Men May Be Alive In Vessel

Board of Inquiry Begins Probe Into Tragic Disaster

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy had scant hope today of ever unraveling the full mystery of America's greatest submarine disaster—the sinking of the nuclear-powered Thresher with 129 men in the deadly depth of the sea.

"We will never know what went on within the submarine," said Adm. George W. Anderson, chief of naval operations, after announcing sadly and reluctantly Thursday that the Navy had given up the ship as lost.

But the Navy launched an exhaustive campaign to find out what it could—the condition of the ship before the disaster, the condition of the ship now. A Navy court of inquiry gathered at Groton, Conn.

Secretary of the Navy Fred Korth acted to still "rumors and speculation" that any of the 129 may be alive, trapped in the Thresher's hull more than 8,000 feet under the Atlantic.

He issued a statement Thursday night after the submarine Seawolf radioed that its sound gear picked up what appeared to be hull noises from a stationary object in the area in which the Thresher was heard from last at 9:17 a.m. Wednesday.

Korth said he had the "unequivocal assurance of all those in a position to know, including the chief of bureau of ships, the commander Submarines Atlantic, and the search and rescue commander on the scene, that in waters of this depth, there is absolutely no possibility that there might be survivors."

The Atlantic Fleet Headquarters at Norfolk, Va., said that it was possible the Seawolf heard "the transmission of search units over the horizon, which were transferred by bottom-bounce."

In his formal declaration, Korth expressed "a fervent hope that the rumors and speculation which have already begun will cease, providing the bereaved families a more stable climate in which to compose themselves and endure their grief."

In New London, Conn., the widow of the Thresher's skipper, Lt. Cmdr. John W. Harvey, spoke the gratitude of the families of the men aboard her husband's ship for the prayers and messages of concern.

Mrs. Harvey, mother of two boys, 11 and 8, said "our men have been lost performing the duty they chose and their way of life, in the service of their

700 File Complaints On Property Taxes

LISBON — County Auditor Kenneth Bell said Thursday that more than 700 persons filed complaints before the deadline Wednesday on their increased property taxes resulting from the reappraisal completed in 1961.

The figure represents about 1 percent of the 64,000 parcels on the tax duplicate for the first half of 1962 payable in 1963.

Bell said complaints will be studied by the Board of Review, which consists of Bell, Treasurer Vincent C. Judge and Commissioner Walter A. Hunston.

Bell also said that advance payments of the real estate tax funds will not be sent out to subdivisions before April 19, as the amounts will not be certified to his office by the treasurer's office before Saturday.

The Motion Could Be Renewed

One of the puzzlements of the Christian era—the movable date of Easter—has the simplest of explanations.

Easter is celebrated at different dates from year to year because that is the way it has been done since the Council of the Christian Churches at Nicea in A.D. 325.

What was begun as an arbitrary rule 1,638 years ago has acquired the force of tradition. Now, if proposals to undo the tradition are made, they are regarded as heretical. In fact, they aren't heretical at all.

Roman Catholics at the Ecumenical Council in Vatican City last December talked about negotiating with non-Catholic Christian churches on a fixed date for Easter. Leading Christian churchmen are open to suggestions for a date more satisfactory than the formula for the first Sunday after the first full moon following the vernal equinox. This makes Easter come as early as March 22 or as late as April 25.

Proposition Not Proved

A transit bill approved by the U.S. Senate would give the government authority to commit three-quarters of a billion dollars to a proposition so shaky it couldn't attract $100 in Confederate money in some communities.

The proposition is that Americans who commute to urban centers can be persuaded to ride buses, trains and, presumably, monorails — if this latest form of transportation is offered.

The proposition assumes that of other transportation is made available the commuters will abandon their private automobiles in sufficiently large numbers to relieve traffic congestion in to central areas.

The trouble is, however, that nothing anyone has thought of so far has weaned enough commuters from their cars to make any appreciable difference in traffic congestion. Ridership on mass transportation

And why was this done by the Council of Nicea? To light pilgrims who traveled to the Holy Land to celebrate the Resurrection? They needed a full moon for protection against roving bands of marauders.

Historians recall a conference called by the League of Nations in 1923 to discuss the problem of an Easter date. A general desire to fix Easter on the same date each year was expressed, just as the date of Christmas is fixed, except Easter would fall always on Sunday.

Five years later, in 1928, the British Parliament passed an act designating the first Sunday after the second Saturday in April as Easter Day. Britain was ready to act. One proviso was added—that the date would have to be accepted internationally.

It never was. That is why Easter still is a movable date—because nothing ever was done about changing it. The light of the full moon is still more important than any other factor.

fluctuates from time to time and from city to city, but in the long view it keeps moving downward.

To the disgust of the mass transporters, people like to use their own cars. They like to go and come at their own convenience, even if it means traffic jams. They cheerfully concede the logic of mass transportation but just as cheerfully keep on battling traffic and operating expenses because they do not live by logic.

If they did, they wouldn't be going to work day after day in big-city rabbit warrens. In many instances, they do it because they find it exciting and apparently the ordeal of getting there and back in their own cars is part of the excitement for millions of them.

No one has changed their minds about this yet.

Don't Point That Thing At Us!

Harold Wilson's televised statement in this country that Great Britain never can think of itself as a first-class nuclear power because it must depend on someone else for its weapons should cause no stir back home, where Prime Minister Macmillan has been talking about the same reality. The British accept the idea.

For Americans who like to see their country sometimes as others are forced to look at it, the Labor party leader's remark becomes a comment on a situation that never has been put in clear perspective.

There are two first-class nuclear powers—the United States and the Soviet Union. Countries destined to be second-rate nuclear powers may take themselves out of competition eventually. The reason is simple.

Confronted with a choice between trying to do the impossible and perishing in the attempt, or gambling on survival as second-rate powers, they will choose the latter.

Still Loyal to the New Deal

"We advocate an immediate and drastic reduction of government expenditures by abolishing useless commissions and offices, consolidating departments and bureaus and eliminating extravagance, to accomplish a saving of not less than 25 per cent in the cost of the federal government."

"We favor maintenance of the national credit by a federal budget annually balanced and a sound currency to be preserved at all hazards."

Whose quotations are those? Do they sound like some ultra-conservative organization? Perhaps the Chamber of Commerce of the United States or the National Manufacturers Association?

Guess again. They are from the 1932 Democratic National Platform which launched the Roosevelt New Deal!

The quotations were recalled recently by

Purely Personal

If you are old enough to remember when $5,000 a year was a sound family income, you are old enough to realize it now takes $12,769 to equal what you once thought would be tops in buying power. If you had your eye on $10,000 in those days, you need to raise your sights to $26,934, according to National Industrial Conference Board.

My favorite example of academic folly at the moment is the mathematics teacher who was told she must earn 12 more credit hours in education courses to hold her job and told the authorities what to do with the job and hired out to the university that bestows credit hours on teachers who are trying to hold etc., etc.

If you're a truck driver in one of those high cabs, what you do when springtime comes is admire the uncovered knees of all the women drivers from your vantage point.

Everybody has had his guess about Herb Score, the hard luck ballplayer who never came back after catching a line drive in the eye. But now that the young man has hung up his glove and called it a career, my theory is that his vision was off just enough to cross up the conditioned reflexes that had caused him to be one of baseball's hardest throwers.

If I ever have time to do anything but try to keep from being buried alive by all the things that must be done right away, I intend to read everything ever written about "Mark Twain," because of all writers he seems to me to be the one I would be most likely to understand.

All we know about these things is what we read in the papers, but in that squabble over which company deserved the airplane contract I keep bearing in mind that the company which lost out is the same one which rubbed the Kennedy fur the wrong way on a matter of unionism.

The use of trained dogs to attack Negroes in the South has proved so offensive to admirers of dogs elsewhere that no one should be surprised if federal legislation is proposed to curb the use of dogs by police departments in general. All who had been interested in the possibilities of criminal detection are sickened by the possibilities of brutalitarianism in the hands of the wrong people.

If some readers are critical of newspapers for publishing catchup material after long strikes, it may help to know that the material had been prepared for the files in any event; that newspapers do not quit collecting news just because some of their employees prefer to stay away from their jobs.

I have not changed my mind about the probability that Fidel Castro will show up in Miami in due time, seeking refuge and babbling a story about being held mental captive by the Communists; and that if it happens he will make a mint writing a series for a newspaper syndicate: "I Was a Patsy for the U.S.S.R."

Another Crisis In Steel Industry In the Making

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Another crisis in the steel industry is in the making. It could have effect that would spur the economy, but it could, on the other hand, turn the economy downward and bring an era of stagnation and frustration.

David Lawrence
their wage costs have gone up steadily. Meanwhile, profits have been squeezed, dividends have been reduced, and more than 100,000 steel workers have been deprived of jobs.

Much of this trouble, though not all of it, was intensified by President Kennedy's dramatic rise that several companies endeavored to put into effect in April 1962, only to find themselves threatened with loss of contracts by the Defense Department and publicized investigations by the Department of Justice, supposedly seeking evidence for antitrust suits which never materialized.

This constituted a form of "police state" pressure unprecedented in American history.

But economic facts cannot be erased by presidential threats or by the coercive tactics of government departments. A new attempt to raise prices has just been made this week by the Wheeling Steel Co. of West Virginia, the eleventh largest producer of steel in the country.

THE MOVE has come as a surprise, even to steel men. Almost everybody expected that sooner or later some company would try a price rise, but nobody knew which corporation would do it, or when.

Now a propitious time has arrived, because demand for steel has lately been rising. It isn't clear yet whether this trend will be maintained, for much of the demand comes from inventory stockpiling due to the fear of another steel strike this summer. If no strike occurs, the question is whether the price rise then would stick.

Coincidentally, Arthur B. Homer, head of Bethlehem Steel Co., was debating the problem with stockholders at their annual meeting at Wilmington, Del., on Tuesday of this week, and just the day before, Roger Blough, chairman of the U.S. Steel Corp., was making a speech on the same theme at Des Moines, Iowa.

Neither speech predicted any course of action on prices, but both utterances revealed realistically what the nation is up against and what dangerous times may lie ahead because of the situation in the steel industry.

MR. HOMER declared that "it's true we do need some relief as far as the profit situation is concerned," and said that the "immediate relief" could come through a price rise. But he told reporters later, "there's considerable doubt in my mind as to whether the market will support a price rise."

He indicated that maybe the only way to get an answer to the problem is to try an experiment. He added:

"If demand holds up, you might have a situation where the best thing for the economy would be a higher (steel) price level. It might happen with just a few items. It might not happen at all."

Mr. Blough expressed some of the same doubts as Mr. Homer about what the reaction to a price increase might have been even if there had been no presidential interference at year ago. In his Des Moines speech this week, Mr. Blough said:

"Had they (steel prices) stuck at the time, it seems probable that in the case of some products and areas, the competitive forces of the market would later have compelled a reduction from the newly established higher levels. But there is little doubt that the general level of steel prices would now be higher than it is."

MR. BLOUCH expressed his belief that "no one in government—no matter how highly placed, how well-advised, how sincere his beliefs, or how dedicated his purpose—should interfere with the lawful business decisions of our people."

Today, some of the steel companies are considering an experimental try at price-raising.

It would be unwise for the administration to intervene this time for a variety of reasons — mostly because the economy would sag and become depressed by any such step. But a big uncertainty remains whether any general price increase would really prove effective now. There might be increases currently in the price of selective items and among those products in which certain companies specialize and have little competition. Then some upward price trend in the general list of steel products might later ensue.

Is the country ready at present, however, to pay higher prices for steel? Or has the saturation point on prices come for the time being?

If business expansion as a whole continues to be thwarted due to the failure of the administration to do something about the labor-union monopolies, then price increases in steel will fail to accomplish their purpose. The larger companies would survive, but the marginal ones would go out of business and there would be more unemployment than before.

IT'S ALWAYS a risky experiment to raise prices in a sluggish economy. But it is even riskier to let labor unions press for increased wage costs which materially reduce profits when a rise in prices cannot be absorbed by the buyers.

The experiment in the steel price change about to be undertaken is the most momentous development in the national economy in the last five years of rising wage costs without equivalent price increases.

If the steel price rise now can be absorbed without a drop in buying, it will be a sure sign that, to use the President's language, the economy is "moving again."

Cross In the Deep

U.S. Trainees Fighting Reds

By VICTOR RIESEL

The name Vassily Kemensky is unknown in the United States and virtually unknown in his native Moscow — but he is the forerunner of the invasion of British Guiana, perhaps soon to be a second Cuba, bordering on oil-rich Venezuela and poverty-stricken Communist-laden northeast Brazil.

Kemensky and three colleagues flew recently into British Guiana as a Soviet trade mission at the invitation of its pro-Soviet, pro-Peiping Prime Minister Cheddi Jagan. There also have been visits from East German and Czech "trade delegations," which have surveyed the little nation of half a million people.

Thus the Soviet mechanism of infiltration has begun operating. Russian money, rifles, ammo, grenades, flown in. Pro-Communist youth schools are being set up. Young Guianese — their fares paid for by Soviet "universities" — are leaving for cities behind the Iron Curtain.

IT SHOULD, therefore, come as no surprise if a northern slice of South America is Cubanized before we realize. But there are men with courage and there is a fighting chance — in the literal sense — that Jagan might not be able to pull a Castro.

Six of these courageous men have been trained here in the American Institute for Free Labor Development. They are now back in British Guiana where they are working with a rather fearless chap by the name of Richard Ishmael, president of the British Guiana Trades Union Council and general president of the anti-Communist sugar workers' union known as the Man-Power Citizens' Association.

A few weeks ago Ishmael told two aides of National Maritime Union (NMU) president Joseph Curran that the Communist international apparatus was steadily pouring batches of small arms into the country to keep power if the pro-Communist government

Realizing this, the American Institute for Free Labor Development — supported by U.S. labor and industry — rushed the training of six Guianese in Washington. This institute is directed by Serafino Romualdi, a veteran anti-Communist labor specialist.

Each of the six trainees has specific tasks inside British Guianese labor. One, James T. Anthon, has been assigned to the workers in mines on which the Russians would love to put their hands.

This union represents about half of the men who work on bauxite, a vital ingredient of aluminum. Anthon has gotten on the negotiating committee and is assisting the union's general president in organizational drives in a strategic river area, so the Communists don't move in.

There is Arthur W. Pyle assigned to the British Guiana Mine Workers Union. He conducts seminars for the miners.

A THIRD is George J. DePeana, who has been assigned as education director to the Clerical & Commercial Workers Union — usually a prime Communist target. He runs seminars. One of the subjects is democracy in the labor is voted out in future national election.

ISHMAEL REPORTED there are 14 freighters in the Soviet-Cuban - Georgetown (British Guiana's capital) run. They bring in fertilizer and other material and ammunition.

Typical is the Soviet freighter Nemirovich Damchenko. It pulled into Georgetown on March 26. After unloading its cargo, passing out its guns, it took on 53,000 bags of rice.

It was in Panama City on March 9, that Ishmael met with Joe Curran's colleagues, Shannon Wall, NMU vice president, and Rene Lioeanjie, NMU coordinator of organizing for Latin America.

He told them that British Guiana's anti-Communist unions would try to stop the Soviet gun running. Ishmael said they would picket the Soviet and Cuban ships at the docks.

Wall and Lioeanjie returned recently and passed this information on to me in an effort to stir support for the anti-Communist unions. Ishmael made good his promise last week. There was intense fighting in the dock area. It soon spread through the city.

THE ANTI-COMMUNIST labor organizations are fighting for their lives. Jagan has organized opposition groups in an effort to take over British Guiana's organized labor. If he succeeds there will be nothing to stop Guiana from going Cuban.

Realizing this, the American Institute for Free Labor Development — supported by U.S. labor and industry — rushed the training of six Guianese in Washington. This institute is directed by Serafino Romualdi, a veteran anti-Communist labor specialist.

Each of the six trainees has specific tasks inside British Guianese labor. One, James T. Anthon, has been assigned to the workers in mines on which the Russians would love to put their hands.

A THIRD is George J. DePeana, who has been assigned as education director to the Clerical & Commercial Workers Union — usually a prime Communist target. He runs seminars. One of the subjects is democracy in the labor movement.

A fourth is David R. Persaud. He is assigned to the Man-Power Citizens' Association, which the Communists have been trying to smash so they can take over the field. The association has more than half the union membership in British Guiana. Persaud's first task on returning from his training in Washington was to regain the membership lost to Jagan's Guiana Sugar Workers Union, the pro-Communist, government-sponsored outfit raiding the association. Because of Persaud's work most of the lost membership has been regained.

A fifth trainee has succeeded in becoming general secretary of the Post Office Workers. A sixth is with the Transport Workers.

It's a pleasure to report we're giving the Communists a run for their money — and guns.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: How delicious to be able to say exactly what I believe — even though it is only on paper. And the protection of phony initials gives me complete immunity.

I agree wholeheartedly with "Irate" and I hope she sticks to her guns. If she doesn't want children she shouldn't have any. Motherhood is the most overrated bunch of baloney in the world.

I didn't want children either. I had an interesting career, beautiful clothes, a great figure and money to spend as I pleased. My husband and I had fun together—socializing and traveling. And then he talked me into having two babies.

Now I feel as if I'm in prison. I hate ever minute I'm forced to spend at home with these two squalling brats. Everything they do irritates me. I loathe house-keeping.

My husband and I were deliriously happy when there were just two of us. Now there are four — and nobody is happy—MONDAY QUARTERBACK.

Dear Quarterback: George Barnard Shaw was right when he said that "parentage is one of the most important professions of all, yet no test of fitness is ever imposed in the interests of the children."

What a tragedy that a twisted creature such as you should be twice blessed when there are millions of women who would give anything to have a baby!

The saddest part of this story is yet to be told. Children who grow up in the emotional climate describe in your letter don't have much of a chance.

She's a Friend?

Dear Ann: A woman who works in the same office with me is a pain in the neck. I would not call her a friend, she is merely an acquaintance. She has a habit of coming over to my desk every few days, and in a voice reflecting deep concern, she says "My but you look tired today."

This has been going on for several months. Today when she said it I replied, "I'm not tired at all. In fact, I've never been so well rested in my life."

She looked shocked and replied in an angry tone, "What are you getting so huffy about? Being tired is nothing to be ashamed of."

Please tell me if you think I was wrong to speak to her as I did. This woman claims she is a friend or she wouldn't be so frank. What do you think?—MUNCIE.

Dear Muncie: A friend doesn't come by every few days to tell you how tired you look. Such remarks are not helpful. They are demoralizing. You were perfectly right to tell her off.

She's Told!

Dear Ann: I was saddened by the letter from the mother who proudly announced that she puts her 8-year-old son's hair in curlers. She also bragged about taking him to the beauty shop every week and letting him sit under the hair dryer next to her.

Somebody ought to tell that woman at once that she should not be sitting under a dryer that that hole in her head. — BALD AND HAPPY.

Dear B and H: Thanks, Buc. You just did.

Confidential

TO JUSTIFIED OR NOT: You have no right to make a decision of this magnitude without discussing it with him first and getting his side of the story. They are HIS children, too.

TO MIDDLE POINT: He may be an old dog, but the tricks are not new. Tell him to put the show on the road.

Rides In Atomic Craft Never Forgotten

Whatever Happened Aboard Sub Thresher, There Was No Panic

Editor's Note—What's it like cruising under the sea in a nuclear submarine such as the Thresher? How does the crew react in a deep dive, in an emergency? Elton C. Fay, AP military affairs writer, tells about it by drawing on his first-hand observations during rides on atomic subs.

By ELTON C. FAY
AP Military Affairs Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—Whatever happened aboard the Thresher, there almost certainly was no panic.

Submariners have steel nerves. Years of training mean they react instantly and instinctively to orders, whatever the circumstance.

What is it like aboard a high-speed, deep-dive atomic submarine? Such a submarine as the Thresher, lost in the Atlantic, perhaps under hundreds of feet of ocean?

What is it like when a submarine goes down for hundreds of feet and then, for urgent reason, pushes past the red line marking on the depth indicator, beyond which mighty pressure builds up swiftly and dangerously?

You remember rides aboard nuclear submarines.

Calmness Aboard Ship

There is the calmness, the orderly way the ship is handled, the low-spoken commands and responses. Cremen in the mess, drinking coffee, crewmen at the controls, crewmen in the machinery spaces, in the torpedo compartments. Submarines are quiet and nuclear submarines quieter. There was the time aboard the Seawolf, second atomic submarine built.

The Seawolf had left Key West, Fla., headed on a routine trip to the New London, Conn., base. One day out a message came to join in a hunt for a suspected unknown submarine in the area, off the Florida coast.

The tempo changed. This wasn't practice; this was a hunt to see whether there was a Russian submarine hovering off the U.S. coast.

Hour upon hour, the submarine cruised, stopping now, moving then, listening on passive sonar, closing in toward an area in which planes and ships had reported the suspected presence of an unknown.

Focal Point Reached

The focal point of the search was reached. The Seawolf hunted and listened high up, near the surface, then down deeper. The active sonar was turned on. It sent out its pinging notes and listened for echoes from a steel hull—or something. What was that ahead, down below?

Take her deeper. The diving officer, standing behind the planesman at the controls, called off the depth, "passing one hundred, passing two hundred," and more and more hundreds. The depth indicator needle crept steadily toward the red line, then passed it.

The submarine was below the depth for which its hull and tenders up the nerves, but it is done on occasions.

The captain had ordered: "Rig for quiet patrol" and in a moment "Rig for ultraquiet." A great stillness came. The ordinary white lights were off. The deep red of battle lights touched highlights on faces and instruments and control levers, left shadows in sable black.

If you watched closely, you caught crewmen stealing quick glances at rivets and hull fittings as the terrific pressure of deep water built up.

The understanding is that a submarine hull usually doesn't just crush inward, although this probably has happened in some accidents. What probably happens in most instances is that an intake valve or other fitting through the pressure hull gives way suddenly. A compartment floods and the pressure overwhelms the door and bulkheads into other compartments. Suddenly the boat is filled and the pressure equalizes. It goes down and down, until it rests on the bottom.

Brando and Politics

B HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — He spoke with a slow, painful intensity, torturing his mind to get the right word, the exact phrase to express his meaning.

"People want identity more than they want money or anything else in life," said Marlon Brando. "And that hunger for identity and self-respect can have disastrous political effects."

"Where people have weak identities of their own, they will seek identity with the strong. But nationalism is on the swing everywhere now."

Brando, who portrayed a fighting diplomat in Southeast Asia in the film, "The Ugly American," has been keenly interested in politics for some time.

Something of a rebel all his own life, he has been openly critical of the American government's treatment of minorities at home and its attitude toward revolutionary movements that have sprung up abroad since the end of the second World War.

"Movie idols don't usually spout off on political issues, and Brando acknowledged that it had been suggested to him he'd do better to button his lip except when before the camera lens."

"I've been asked, 'Who are you to shoot your mouth off? You're just an actor. Your rightful organ of communications is the scandal sheet, or the movie magazine.' 'But if me and my family—and my country — are going to be threatened by extinction, I've got something to say about it. I just can't blithely stand around and accept whatever fate befalls me."

The truth seems to be that Brando thrives on controversy as some people do on praise. Listening to him, one gets the feeling that he himself is still groping for the real nature of his identity. He feels too many values today are measured by price tags.

"People don't realize how much of our lives is controlled by money generally," he said, stabbing thoughtfully at the remnants of a $5.50 luncheon steak.

"Everything is bought and sold today — people, magazines, new ideas, motion pictures, whisky and motor cars. And very little distinction is made between the merchandising potential of ideas, people and material things."

Success has exacted its own price from Brando. He believes that both toadies and critics have raised false images of him in the public mind.

"I'm distressed at having to be worshiped, idolized, hated, scorned and attacked for reasons that are completely inappropriate to what I am," he said.

"I don't mind being shot down for what I am or for what I have done, but I don't want to be a straw man for anybody."

"I hate to be hustled, to have my name peddled through the bazaars of the world. After all, I have families to support." Brando's mood changed as he rose to go.

"Life gets easier as you get older," he said, smiling.

Is your tax money being spent where it counts?

You'd probably answer yes—when your taxes are used for defense, space exploration, or other jobs you expect the government to do. The nation is better able to pay for these if the government cuts out needless spending.

Yet, right now, some people insist that the federal government should spend millions more of your tax dollars for additional federal electric power plants and lines.

This is needless spending because the more than 300 investor-owned electric light and power companies have the facilities to provide all the additional electricity needed for a growing America.

Wouldn't it make sense for the federal government to stop such needless spending and use your tax dollars only for items that can be justified on the grounds of national interest?

History of Music Boxes Told to Club

Mrs. Paul Beaver presented a program on music boxes when 13 members of the Salem Music Study Club met Wednesday at the Smucker House.

In her presentation of the history of the objects, Mrs. Beaver stated that bells in church towers were the origin of producing mechanical music. Following this were watch makers in Switzerland and their tower clocks with revolving discs.

The best-known music boxes to-day are the Regina, of which there are many collectors, among them the late Alec Templeton, who is said to have had 125 music boxes in his rare collection.

Mrs. Beaver played a record, "Their Lore and Lure" by Helen and John Hoke depicting tones and rhythms of varied instruments.

Mrs. Homer Taylor, program chairman, presented "Hosanna, Loud Hosanna" (Threlfall), a German tune, as the "hymn of the month." The group sang the hymn, accompanied by Mrs. Gilbert Timm.

Mrs. A. W. Kilman conducted the business meeting and made announcements of several meetings. National Music Week will begin May 5 with a 3:30 p. m. program at the Methodist Church.

National Federation of Music convention will be held April 19-23 in Pittsburgh. Ways and means committee announced plans for a rummage sale May 2-3.

Next meeting will be at 1:15 p. m. April 24 at the Smucker House when guest day will be observed. Guest artist will be James Elson, vocal director at the Dana School of Music.

Hostesses were Mrs. Raymond Mackall and Mrs. Timm.

Of Interest to Farmers

By OVID A. MARTIN
WASHINGTON (AP) — Wheat production this year appears likely to be sufficient to meet domestic and export needs without dipping into a big surplus.

An Agriculture Department report Wednesday offered prospects of a wheat harvest this year close to 1.2 billion bushels. Domestic and export demands are not expected to exceed that amount.

Such a crop this year would be about 9 per cent above last year's relatively small one. Last year, farmers were required to reduce planting allotments at least 10 per cent in return for government payments. This year, reduction of planting below allotments was voluntary. Hence, prospects indicated larger yield this year.

Supplementing the crop will be a reserve and surplus of slightly more than 1.2 billion bushels accumulated from past crops, much of it in government hands.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farm employment increased 13 per cent during March but fell 1 per cent short of that of a year earlier.

Employment of family workers and hired hands was reported by the Agriculture Department at 5,662,000, compared with 5,736,000 in late March last year.

The department said farm wage rates on April 1 averaged 3 per cent higher than a year earlier, reaching a record high for the date. The rate averaged 79.9 cents an hour compared with 77.9 cents a year ago.

For Forage
Some of Ohio's livestock farmers may be facing a summer feed shortage because of last year's drought. Forage seedlings in some areas didn't get established because of the dry conditions.

Sundagrass could provide a valuable substitute for these lost forages, according to Research Scientist R. W. Van Keuren at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station. He, and fellow researchers A. D. Pratt and R. R. Davis, of sundagrass on milk production at the Station's Trumbull County farm near Cortland.

Heinsohn cows grazing on sundagrass and fed a moderate level of grain produced as well as those grazing grass, however, produced more milk per acre because of a longer season of use.

Besides being a good emergency crop to replace the drought damaged forage seedlings, the researchers think that sundagrass can fit into a dairy farm program to be short-lived in some areas with heavy soil and poor drainage. Under these conditions, sundagrass could be used to replace part of the acreage of alfalfa; grass.

Piper sundagrass was used in the Station tests. It was drilled at 25-30 pounds of seed per acre and given adequate fertilization. This grass can be planted soon after weather and soil conditions are suitable for corn. With good growing weather and proper fertilization, sundagrass usually will be ready to graze in six weeks.

For adequate fertility, the scientists suggest drilling 200-300 pounds per acre of 8-16-16, 5-20-20, 6-24-12, or similar analysis fertilizer with the seed. An additional 80-100 pounds of nitrogen should be applied unless the sundagrass follows a legume sod, in which case no added nitrogen is needed.

Sundagrass is grazed after reaching a height of about 18 inches. It should carry 1 to 1½ animal units per acre until frost. Waste of the tall growing forage can be avoided by using a heavy stocking rate to graze it down fast, say the researchers. It should then be allowed to recover. This management requires dividing the field into several smaller pastures for rotational grazing. The slight danger of prussic acid also can be avoided by proper management. This can be done by not grazing sundagrass when it is short, and by not grazing the short, rapidly growing new growth following a drought or frost.

Although it doesn't produce as much milk per acre as a good alfalfa-grass pasture, the research is useful crop to fill a need for extra pasture. Further, it makes its biggest contribution during late summer when other pastures are less productive.

Drainage Demonstrations
The drainage problems of the farmer are much the same as those of his suburbanite cousin — only they involve more land.

The farmer uses drain tile, surface drainage systems, or land leveling or grading to carry excess water from his fields. The suburbanite often uses the same means, but on a smaller scale, to carry excess water from his lot.

Both the farmer and his suburbanite cousin will have an opportunity to see some of the latest types of drainage equipment in action on a big scale this summer. The occasion is a Tri-State Drainage and Water Conservation Field Day July 31 and Aug. 1 on the Stanley Riddle farm near Albion, Ind. The farm is about 25 miles northwest of Ft. Wayne in Northeast Indiana.

Drainage contractors associations of Ohio, Indiana, and Michigan will sponsor the field day in cooperation with the Agricultural Extension Services of the Ohio State University, Purdue University, and Michigan State University, Soil and Water Conservation Districts and the Soil Conservation Service.

The big event is expected to draw several thousand persons to the 155-acre farm to see modern drainage machines install 10,000 feet of drain tile, put in a diversion terrace, construct a drainage ditch, and demonstrate land smoothing, stump removal, land clearing, and irrigation. Visitors also may take an air tour to view farm ponds, contour strips, pasture improvement, good woodlot management, and recreational developments in the area.

Get Capital 4-H Trip
Two boys and two girls will represent Ohio at the National 4-H Club Congress in Washington, D. C. April 20-26.

Receiving the expense — paid trip to the nation's capital, the highest award an Ohio 4-H member can achieve, are Marilyn Hunt Bourque of Harrison, Hamilton County; Susan Briggs of Mentor, Lake County; Thomas A. Ruehr of Ravenna, Portage County; and William K. Brandt of Anna, Shelby County.

Albert F. Gehres, state 4-H club leader; and S. P. Bruny, 4-H club supervisor, will accompany the delegates.

Canker Diseases In Trees
Severe winter conditions may lead to canker diseases in trees. This can occur on evergreens, especially Norway spruce and Colorado blue spruce.

Heavy snows pull the branches down so far that many small cracks develop under the bark, says Dr. R. E. Partyska, extension plant pathologist at Ohio State University. Canker-causing organisms invade these areas under favorable conditions and infect the tissue. Later in the growing season the needles may begin to fall and the entire branch or tree may die.

On other trees, such as peach, maple, dogwood, ash and apple, these organisms often start in frost cracks in the crotches of branches. If these areas are neglected, cankers may form that will require removal of the branch.

Spraying evergreen trees this spring with a solution of fixed copper (50 per cent) at 4 pounds per 100 gallons (2 lbs. per gallon) will help prevent infection, Dr. Partyska says. This should be directed to the lower branches where most injury has occurred. However, the entire tree can be sprayed to give protection to other branches.

Give several applications at 2-3 week intervals in April. On other trees, frost cracks should be trimmed, shaped and painted with a tree wound paint to prevent invasion by wood rotting organisms.

History Today

Today is Friday, April 12, the 102nd day of 1963. There are 263 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this day in 1945, President Franklin Roosevelt died at the age of 63 following a cerebral hemorrhage. His death occurred as Allied forces were nearing victory in Europe and the Far East during World War II.

On this day: In 1606, the Union Jack became England's national flag.

In 1788, the first power loom for the manufacture of cloth in the United States was installed at Philadelphia.

In 1861, the Civil War began with the bombardment of Fort Sumpter, S.C.

In 1942, Japanese bombers attacked the U.S. fortress of Corregidor in the Philippines during World War II.

In 1949, Stanley Hiller Jr. landed in New York after the first transcontinental helicopter flight.

Mike Sobona of Salem was one of five Rio Grande College students who represented the school at the recent Ohio Student Education Association convention in Columbus.

Hints From

Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

DEAR HELOISE: I wonder if many of our readers know that if you keep your best silver in mason jars . . . sealed tightly, it will never tarnish?

I keep spoons, salad forks in quart jars and knives and forks in two quart jars.

I always put paper or a piece of cloth in the bottom of the jar first.

Never seal the jar if there is steam in the room from something cooking and be sure to put the cover on good and tight.

I want to thank the lady who sent in the hint about putting cornstarch in the water when we wash our windows. To me his is absolutely wonderful.

at home: Use a piece of styrofoam for a pin cushion, it's wonderful.

ST. LOUIS
DEAR HELOISE: Here is a hint for those of us fortunate enough to have dishwashers:

Use a long handled vegetable brush to go over the dishes and shove the scraps down the disposal while the water is running. You can also clean the sink up at the same time with the same brush.

(Use the brush as you do the broom in your bath tub.) This sure saves your hands from scouring powders!

MRS. O. WRIGHT.

DEAR MRS. WRIGHT: How could anybody get along without those vegetable brushes?

Heloise welcomes all mail, especially household hints which she can pass on to readers as space permits. However, because of the tremendous volume of mail she receives daily, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will answer readers' questions in her column whenever possible.

The Meaning of the Resurrection: Event Changed the Course of History

EDITOR'S NOTE—Theories to rationalize what happened to Christ between Good Friday and Easter are many. One is that he simply fainted. But the Rev. Dr. Thomas S. Kepler, in this final article of a series on the resurrection's impact for modern times, finds more to the Easter message than do the rationalists. Dr. Kepler's article is taken from his new book, "The Meaning and Mystery of the Resurrection," published by Association Press and copyrighted by the National Board of YMCAs.

By DR. THOMAS S. KEPLER

Emil Brunner recognizes the difficulty one encounters who tries to understand what happened to Jesus at the time of his death and his subsequent resurrection.

"The resurrection is an incomprehensible event, because it represents the inbreak of the eternal world of God into our temporal sphere. Thus it is something which no man can understand or describe, because it is the cancellation of space-time existence."

SUCH A STATEMENT may satisfy the schooled New Testament theologian with his "eye of faith," but others have been more concerned to rationalize the death and the resurrection happenings.

The swoon theory presupposes that Jesus had a suspended animation on the cross, and that after this swoon he was hastened by his friends to a cool cave where he was revived. Such a theory misses the point of the resurrection as an overpowering experience in the lives of Jesus' followers and does not explain what later occurred to Jesus' physical body.

An even more imaginative hypothesis is called the telegram theory, which says that while Jesus was still in the sepulchre he sent spiritual message or "telegram" to his disciples, which became for them spiritual manifestations of his appearance. Such a theory may give some Christian believers what they feel is the basic spiritual worth of the resurrection, but it still leaves the problem of the empty grave unsolved.

The hallucination theory rationalizes Jesus' resurrection appearances as the result of the tired, excited condition of his friends. Such a theory might satisfy the conditions of some of the women who were the first visitors to the tomb, but it hardly accounts for Jesus' later appearances to the disciples in Galilee, to the five hundred, to Paul on the Damascus road or to "all the apostles."

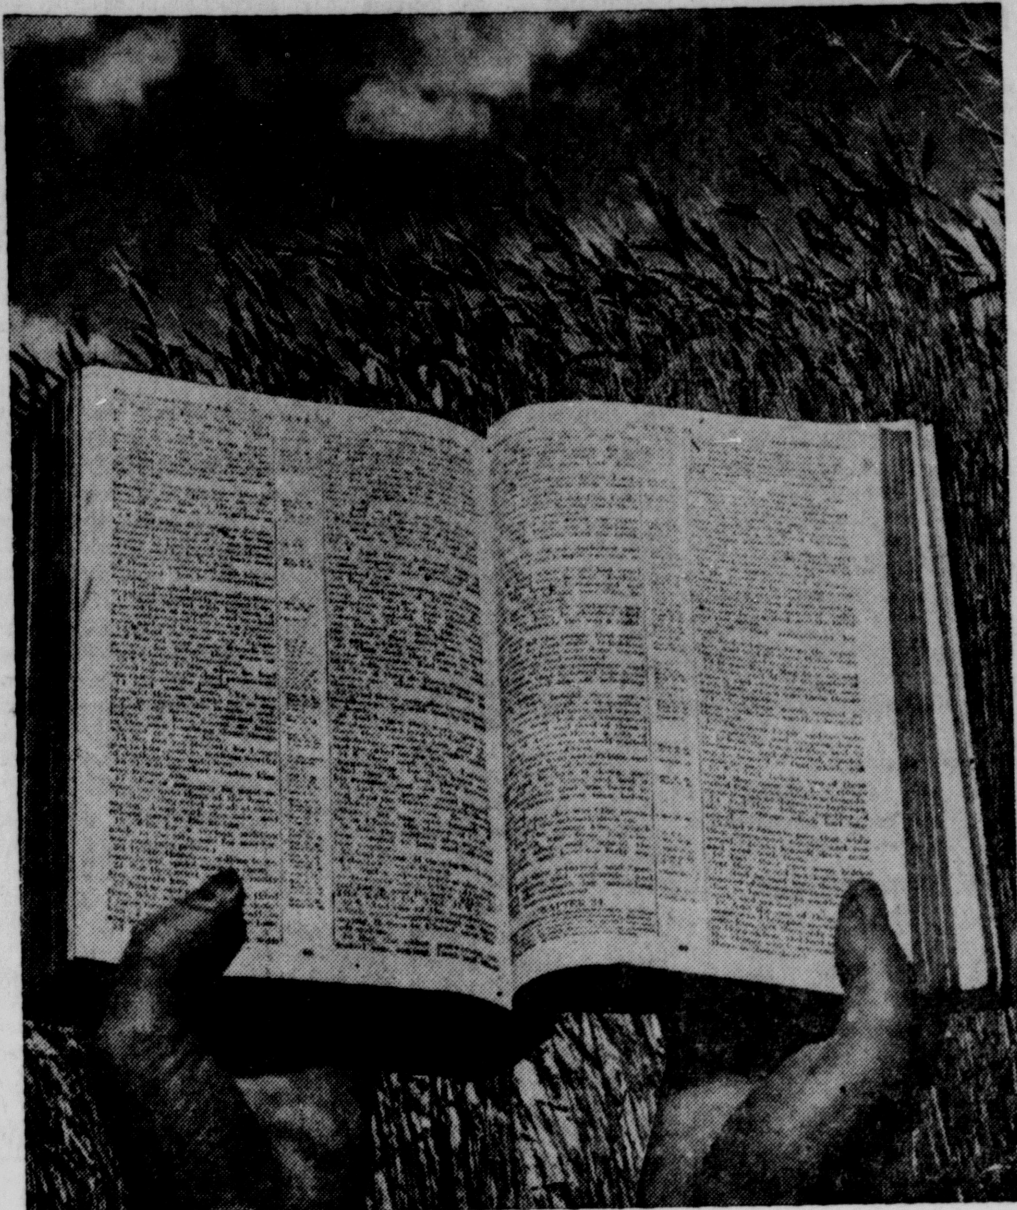

The oldest hypothesis to explain what happened to Jesus' body is that of the theft theory. The theory holds that Jesus' disciples stole the body and made pretense that Jesus had been resurrected. Such viewpoints fail to explain the continuing power of the resurrection event in the early Church, by which the Christians conquered persecution, martyrdom, ridicule and heresy.

The "history of religions" approach to the death and resurrection of Jesus views these events from other religions of a dying utopian god, a light bearer and rising cult god. It points to the stories as related to Attis, Isis, Adonis and Persephone of the mystery cults which contain the dying and the resurrection of cult deities, and thus considers Christianity as following a similar myth; hence the myth theory concerning the resurrection of Jesus.

Though there may be similarities between facts concerning Jesus' death and resurrection and those of other religions, it still is remembered that Christianity was an historical religion about an historical figure, while Attis, Isis, Adonis and Persephone belong to the realm of mythical figures within the realm of religious mythology.

IN RECENT YEARS, with renewed interest in psychical research, the resurrection of Jesus is viewed by the rationalist as an illustration of spiritual communication between Jesus and those who believed in him. More than half a century ago, F. W. H. Myers delved into this possibility and was led "... to a belief in direct or telepathic intercommunication... between minds or spirits still on earth and spirits departed, and that with assertion from knowledge of such psychical data all reasonable men, a century hence, will believe in the Resurrection of Christ."

If spiritual communication is possible between those of us on earth and those who have left this earthly scene, such evidence of communication between Jesus and his followers is not out of the question.

BUT THERE IS MORE to be obtained from the "saving event" of Jesus than merely communication with his resurrected self; for it is the entire soteriological value derived from Jesus' life, teachings, miracles and death, upon which the resurrection puts a seal.

Perhaps the rationalist wishes too easy and too definite an answer to the resurrection event. The resurrection is a numinous experience, lying in the realm of mystery.

The concept of the resurrection lying within the realm of the numinous will of course never satisfy the rationalist. But there are rather hard and terse facts which ought to convince the rationalist of the fact of the resurrection, though its mode must remain a mystery.

FOUR EVENTS within the days following Jesus' resurrection bear evidence to its import: (1) the Christian Church, (2) the New Testament, (3) the setting aside of Sunday as the Christian "sabbath" (4) the Lord's Supper as a sacrament of joy and thanksgiving.

The rationalist must evaluate these four events in the life of the early Christian movement as stemming from the resurrection of Jesus, not as proofs of the mode of Jesus' resurrection, but as evidence of the fact of his resurrection.

The resurrection of Jesus

Christ will ever remain a mystery, though at the same time a reality which changed the course of history.

The Doctor Says

By Dr. WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT
Health Questions, Answers

Q—My husband used to have attacks of vertigo about once every five years but now that he is 72 he gets them almost every day. What can be done to stop these spells?

A—Vertigo, or true dizziness, is a feeling that everything in the room is whirling around. This is due to an irritation of the organ of equilibrium in the inner ear. There are many underlying causes. It is doubtful that Dr. Brandstadt the attacks your husband had at five-year intervals were the same as those he now has daily.

One element of confusion is that many persons complain of dizziness when they feel light-headed, or when they are about to black out. Others describe as "dizzy spells" the blurring of vision that goes with a typical migraine attack.

Vertigo in an elderly person is usually due to hardening of the arteries in the inner ear. One form of this is Meniere's disease. No one can give you any clue as to the proper treatment until the cause has been determined.

Q—What is meant by "demyelinating disease?" Is there a cure for it? Can it be kept from progressing?

A—This term usually refers to multiple sclerosis, but also includes some closely related conditions. These diseases are characterized by a destruction of the myelin sheath, the waxy insulating covering of the individual nerve fibers. This results in interference with the proper function of the involved fibers.

Although there is no known cure and no way to prevent the disease from progressing, severity varies greatly in different persons. Periods of spontaneous improvement may occur.

With appropriate treatment by a nerve specialist and physical therapy aids a great deal can be done to enable many victims to live active and useful lives.

Q—One day as I was drinking coffee, some of it got into my windpipe and I had a violent choking spell. What should a person do to clear up this clogging of the windpipe? Can it be fatal?

A—This is a common experience. Most of the time, the windpipe closes before very much fluid gets into it. Although this is exceedingly uncomfortable while it lasts, the cilia in the lining of the windpipe are constantly sweeping mucus and any foreign matter preset into the throat. In most cases, this takes care of the discomfort in a few minutes.

Those persons who think that they ought not just stand there and watch you suffer, and who wish to do something, and do something quick, may want to pound you on the back. This does no good and is not advised.

If a large quantity of fluid is inhaled as in drowning, postural drainage may be necessary to save life.

This would consist of lying over the side of a bed with your head near the floor, thus getting an assist from the force of gravity.

country, and dedicating their efforts to our objectives of peace in a free world."

The Navy, its flags ordered flown at half mast until sunset Monday, went on with the job of trying to learn what happened to the Thresher, which had been the fastest and deepest diving member of its fleet of nuclear submarines.

The court of inquiry prepared to assemble all available information on the physical condition of the crew, the type of overhaul made in the Thresher's last trip to the repair yards, the plans for its experimental diving, the last words it radioed to the escort ship Skylark. The court is headed by Vice Adm. Bernard L. Austin.

On the West Coast, crewmen readied the deep-diving research craft Trieste so it can be loaded on railroad flat cars in San Diego, Calif., for its trip across the continent. In a week, the Trieste will be towed 220 miles off Boston and then allowed to plummet 8,400 feet to the floor of the Atlantic Ocean, hunting for the hull of the Thresher or what is left of it.

The Navy says there is absolutely no way for the Trieste to pull the 278-foot-long Thresher to the surface. The Trieste only can report on what it has seen.

The lack of hard information is sure to provoke a cloud of speculation about the moment of disaster. The Navy has had no such experience before. The sinking of the Thresher was the first loss of a nuclear submarine since these ships became part of America's fleet nine years ago.

Adm. Anderson, in a statement Thursday night, tried to head off any suggestion that there had been complaints about the condition of the Thresher just before it left on its fateful trip.

"There was no hint of any concern on the part of the officers crew or civilians about the seaworthiness of this fine ship," he said.

"Inevitably, in the wake of such a major tragedy rumors arise as to the physical ability of the ship," Anderson said, noting that the Thresher had just left the Portsmouth, N.H., naval yards after an overhaul.

"To dispel them (the rumors) in my own mind," Anderson said, "I have personally checked with the commanding officer of the Portsmouth Naval Shipyard, Rear Adm. Charles J. Palmer, and have been assured by him that the commanding officer of the Thresher, prior to going to sea, was completely satisfied with the ship in all respects."

though the basic philosophies remain the same.

Though Pope John opened the door to practical cooperation in the effort to achieve world peace, he kept it tightly closed against Communist dictatorship.

In contrast to the scorn which Josef Stalin displayed toward the papacy, Soviet Premier Khrushchev has spoken well of Pope John in public at intervals since 1961.

Concrete evidence of the change in relations between the Vatican and the Kremlin came six months ago when two Soviet Orthodox churchmen came to the Vatican Ecumenical Council as observers. It was the first formal contact between the churches since the 11th century.

The Soviets made another overture to the Vatican in February by releasing Archbishop Jose Slipyi, primate of the Ukrainians, after 18 years in Siberia.

Last month the Pope received Khrushchev's son-in-law, Alexi Adzhubei, and his wife in private audience. It was the first papal audience ever given to a top Communist.

Khrushchev at the same time sent congratulations to the Pope on the award to him of the Balzan Peace Prize. The premier warmly praised the Roman Catholic ruler as a man of peace.

Speculation grew that Khrushchev and the Pope might meet if plans for the premier to visit Italy materialize.

Rental Liquor Permit Urged By Wetzel

COLUMBUS — Rep. Clarence L. Wetzel, R-Columbiana, introduced a bill in the Ohio House Thursday to create a new liquor permit for clubs renting their facilities for special functions.

Under the bill, a D-4a permit could be issued to the holder of a D-4 permit which allows the sale of beer and intoxicating liquor on club premises. Wetzel said the existing law does not provide for use of the permit by outsiders using the club.

The special permit would be available only for non-club functions lasting no more than three days. The permit would cost $200.

Stay of Suspension Of Legion Post's License Granted

SALINEVILLE — Upon posting a $25 bond with the Ohio Board of Liquor Control, the John Adams American Legion post here was granted a stay of execution of a 70-day suspension of its liquor permit.

Common Pleas Judge Joel H. signed a joint motion of the liquor board and the Legion post deferring the suspension which was to have gone into effect at noon yesterday.

In awarding the stay Judge Sharp said the post must abide and conform to the order and judgment of common pleas court and must pay all money, costs and damages that may be required of, or awarded against it, upon final determination of its case.

No hearing date has been set on the liquor board's charge that the post's pinball machine paid off in free games in violation of liquor regulation. The offense was allegedly committed June 16, 1961.

The judge said the post was permitted to operate its business the same as if the suspension had not been ordered for the duration of the restraining order and pendency of the post's appeal.

Ursu May Get New Highway Position; Gosney Critical

DON R. Gosney, Columbiana County Democratic chairman, today criticized what he termed "political control at the expense of the taxpayers" in the state highway department Division 11.

He said that John Ursu of Salem, an engineer for the department, was to have been in charge of the Route 62 overpass project but is being transferred to New Philadelphia, Division 11 headquarters, "because he is a Democrat."

The Highway Department explained this morning that Ursu "is being interviewed at the district office today to determine whether to assign him to the division of location and design or to the Interstate Route 70 project in Belmont County."

"This is a part of our plan to utilize all available manpower and to save taxpayers' dollars," explained Division Director Earl Nelson.

Gosney said the million dollar overpass project is being started without an engineer in charge, and he also declared that a Route 7 job in Jefferson County lacks a supervising engineer.

He contended that Democratic holdovers in the highway department are being harassed by the Republicans.

Water Rates At Sebring Are Increased

SEBRING — An increase in water rates here has been put into effect by the Board of Public Affairs, retroactive to April 1.

In making the formal announcement today, Waldo Hitchcock, board president, said the higher rates have been made necessary because of improvements that must be carried out at the water plant on S. Johnston Road.

The rate increase is 10 percent to patrons inside the village and 33 and one-third percent for homes and businesses outside the corporate limits.

The Ohio Edison Co. recently informed the board of public affairs that the electric substation at the filtration plant is obsolete and will have to be replaced to meet state requirements. This will cost $3,200.

The board has employed the Burgess-Niple Corp. of Columbus at a fee of $4,500 to conduct a survey to find other sources of water.

The village presently obtains its water from the Mahoning River west of here, in addition to one well which was drilled last summer. This well has proved inadequate, it was stated, and others may have to be drilled for use as standbys when the Mahoning River is low.

Other water department repairs include replacement of the intake pump, repairs of two standpipes on W. Texas Ave. and the standpipe at the filtration plant at a cost of about $4,000 and purchase of a chlorinator.

The nearby community of Beloit has been trying recently to work out a deal with Sebring to obtain water. It is not known what effect the new rates will have on this.

Police Probe Theft Of Wheel, Tire

City police Thursday received reports of grand larceny, vandalism and hit-skip damage to an automobile.

The incident of grand larceny was at Parker Chevrolet, W. State St., some time Wednesday night, according to the report, when some person or persons took a tire and wheel valued at $58 from a 1963 car parked on the agency lot.

David Daley of 1887 E. Maple St. complained to police that while his car was parked in front of his home Wednesday and Thursday, the car's aerial was broken.

Shortly after 4 p.m. Thursday, a parked car owned by Anne Kures of 390 Cherry St., Hillsdale, received considerable damage when it was hit by an unknown hit-skip vehicle while the Kures car was parked in front of 244 S. Broadway.

Boys Turned Over To Juvenile Officials

LISBON — Five 16 and 17-year-old youths, arrested Wednesday at the Ohio-Pennsylvania border by East Palestine police who found stolen groceries and an assortment of weapons in their car, were turned over to Beaver Falls juvenile authorities Thursday by Juvenile Court Judge Louis Tobin.

Judge Tobin suspended indefinitely the license of the youth who was driving the auto.

Police arrested the boys after they were seen loitering at a shopping plaza on E. Taggart St., scene of recent thefts of groceries from parked cars.

Besides several sacks of groceries, police found a .22 caliber pistol with ammunition, two hunting knives and several homemade blackjacks in the youths' auto.

Webber and Kress each received two outstanding awards in football and basketball respectively.

For the second straight year, Webber, a defensive back, was named the best defensive player. He also copped the coveted annual Wynn Hawkins Award given anonymously in honor of the school's graduate who is now pitching professionally.

THE AWARD, in the form of a $100 scholarship to aid the recipient in further education, is given traditionally to the athlete who has shown most cooperation and has given the most of himself and who is considered the best athlete of the year, according to a vote taken by players in all of the school's sports.

Presenting the award was Russell Coppock, Booster Club president.

Webber was also recognized for being named to the second string of the All Inter-County League.

Capturing two special basketball awards was 67 center senior Jim Kress, who received laurels for being named the most valuable offensive player and for having the best foul shooting record with a 65.6 per cent average.

Kress also made first team in Inter-County League competition and was named to the third string on the All-State Team.

IN OTHER FOOTBALL awards, Larry Rupert, a senior, was named Most Dependable Back and also placed on the second string of the All Inter-County squad. Most Dependable Lineman was Darrell Rupert, a junior, who was also named to the first string of the Inter-County team and second string of the All-County League squad.

John Cresanto, a senior, was selected as the Most Valuable Football Player because of the leadership and inspiration he showed and because of his offensive and defensive prowess. He was also recognized for placing on the first All-Inter-County squad.

Bob Coppock was recognized for being named to the second All Inter-County team.

David Habeger, head football coach, presented the special awards and also presented letters to the following varsity players:

Habeger expressed satisfaction with the squad's 7-3 mark. With only four seniors leaving, he looks to next season with optimism.

PRESENTING THE basketball awards and letters was Bruce Weber, head basketball coach. Besides the awards to Kress, he presented a trophy to Dave Baker, a junior, for being named the Most Valuable Defensive Player.

Basketball letters were won by Kress and Alan Cobourn, seniors; Phil Henderson and Baker, juniors; Rick Dicken, sophomore; and Larry Athey, freshman. Expressing pleasure with his season's mark of 14-4, Weber said Springfield Local was the toughest team faced during the season.

Sportscaster Don Gardner of Youngstown, guest speaker, contrasted modern conditions for athletics with those he had experienced in the past when playing space was limited and facilities were not so up-to-date.

He described modern athletics as a "race of giants" and stressed the importance of scholarship as well as sports before and during college.

Mentioning Wynn Hawkins, who has recently been sent to Jacksonville of the Southern Association Gardner voice the opinion that the deal was a financial manipulation of the New York Mets and that Hawkins will be back in the majors soon. He described the hurler as a "nice guy with brains and a heart."

RESERVE BASKETBALL letters were presented by Habeger to Keith Baker, Jim Mercer, Gail Baughman, Tom Crook, Dennis Spaite and Bill Kress.

Habeger also introduced the track team which, with 32 thinclads out this year, is the largest in the school's history. A young team with only three seniors, it holds a bright future, according to Habeger.

Managers Danny Henderson, Dan Allman and Richard Bartholow were also recognized. Cheerleading awards were given by Miss Ruth Deringer, adviser, to Judy Cope, Gaynelle McIliff, Judy Omslaer, Darlene Conkle and Joyce Rupert, varsity; and Carol Graham, Kathy Hull, Linda McCoy and Elaine Long, reserves.

Coppock acted as toastmaster of the evening. Joe W. Driscoll, executive head of the Fairfield-Waterford school system, introduced the speaker. Ralph Meyers, principal, gave a few remarks.

Martinez, Green Get Only Hits For Indians

Tribe Is Flop In Home Opener, Mossi Tosses 2-Hitter In Tigers' 6-1 Win

CLEVELAND (AP) — Manager Birdie Tebbetts and his new crop of Indians didn't set off any fireworks in their 1963 debut in Cleveland. But Detroit's Don Mossi had quite a bit to do with that.

"Either he was awfully tough or my hitters were pretty bad," Mossi's bid for a perfect game were beaten 6-1 on a brilliant two-hitter by Mossi Thursday.

The 33-year-old southpaw, once a relief ace for the Indians, retired the first 19 batters he faced. Rookie Tony Martinez broke with a solid shot off second baseman Dick McAuliffe's glove with one out in the seventh inning.

Mossi didn't walk a batter and struck out six. The Indians' lone tally came in the ninth. It was unearned.

Mike de la Hoz got on base when shortstop Chico Fernandez booted his grounder. Pinch hitter Gene Green looped a single to right just out of the reach of Al Kaline.

A pair of force outs brought De la Hoz home.

"I get that hit off his fast ball, but he's a very good pitcher," said Martinez.

Tebbetts felt it was Mossi's skill, rather than Cleveland's batting weakness. "He stayed ahead of the batters and didn't lose his stuff," said Birdie. "I think he served up a few screwballs in the late innings."

The manager was asked about his prize rookie centerfielder, Vic Davalillo, who has only one hit in 10 at bats in the first three games.

"If he's only hitting .100 four weeks from now, he'll still be in the line up," Tebbetts replied. "What I'm trying to say is that I know he's going to be all right. "These kids require a little patience and understanding."

No Game Slated Today

There is no game today. The two clubs meet again Saturday with Cleveland Pedro Ramos facing the Tigers' Phil Regan.

The opening day crowd of 25,812 included Cleveland's mayor and Ohio's governor and two U. S. senators.

Mayor Ralph S. Locher took the mound in the pre-game festivities. He threw a couple of balls toward the plate, where Gov. James A. Rhodes waved a bat while Sen. Stephen M. Young crouched behind the plate as catcher.

Locher's first pitch was wide and the second low into the dirt. Rhodes, a Republican, never had a chance to swing, and Young, a Democrat, made a couple of good stops.

Quakers Entertain Southeast Tuesday

By MARK W. MILLER

Salem, showing steady improvement each time out, completely outclassed Alliance 68-50 in a dual track and field meet at Reilly Stadium Thursday night.

Three meets await the Quakers' thinclads next week. Salem will entertain Southeast Tuesday at 4 p.m. and Newton Falls Friday at 4 p.m., and will then compete in a star-studded field in the Steubenville Invitational track and field meet April 27.

One of the most interesting races last evening was the mile run in which Salem's John Tarleton beat teammate Bill Carter by about two steps in 4:48.

Both boys made their move after two laps. Tarleton stepped out in front after trailing in second place for the first half mile, and Carter moved-up on the leader, after running fourth for the initial 880 yards.

WITH 300 YARDS left, Tarleton and Carter began their sprint, and the boys outraced the rest of the field to the tape by 50 yards.

Salem took both relays. In the 880-yard relay, the two schools were even at the second exchange. Tom Bauman moved out in front by five yards during the third 220, and John Zilske ran away from his opponent and finished 17 yards ahead. The unit was timed in 1:35.4.

Bauman was a double winner in the sprints. He captured the 100-yard dash in 10.7 and nipped teammate Bill Berry at the tape in the 220-yard dash in 23.5.

Beery, three-year veteran, tied for first in the high jump with Alliance's Bill Richards, and he took the discus throw with a heave of 128 feet, 2 inches.

THE SALEM MILE relay team of Mark Snyder, Dave Taus, Dave Coy and Tad Bonsall wasn't

Giants Triumph 7-1; Spahn Posts 328th In Braves Win

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Two good eyes and a little rest can work wonders.

Witness Orlando Cepeda, a one-eyed disappointment in the World Series but now teamed with Felipe Alou to form a two-man wrecking crew for the San Francisco Giants. Cepeda rapped out three hits, including a three-run homer, Thursday as the defending National League champions won their third without a loss, 7-1 over the Colts in a night game at Houston.

The burst gave Cepeda nine hits in 14 at-bats. Alou drove in two runs on a double and two singles. He now has eight hits in 12 tries so far.

The Cepeda-Alou combo provided lefty Billy O'Dell with more than enough working room as the Giants completed a sweep of the three-game set. O'Dell stopped the Colts on three hits and an unearned run, striking out six and walking only one.

Milwaukee's Warren Spahn beat the Mets 6-1 on six hits in the Braves' home opener, posting the 328th victory of his career. The Cubs' young Dick Ellsworth three-hit the Dodgers 2-0 at Chicago in the only other National League games scheduled.

Spahn, who will be 42 later this month, moved into a tie with John Clarkson for eighth place on the all-time list of winners on the strength of his easy triumph over the Mets.

He had trouble only with outfielder Duke Snider who produced the Mets only run—and their first of the season after two straight shutouts—when he hit the 390th homer of his career in the second inning. Ellsworth, 23, who was a 20-game loser last season, allowed the previously unbeaten Dodgers only six balls out of the infield.

Ellsworth, a lefty, struck out five and walked two.

West Branch Golfers Trim Canfield 5 1/2-2 1/2

Deon Good fired a 40 to take medalist honors as West Branch trimmed Canfield 5 1/2-2 1/2 in a golf match at Robbyn's Knoll Wednesday.

It was the second victory in three starts for the Warriors, while the Cardinals dropped their first contest of the campaign.

Gary Bryant carded a 43 for the winners, Dick Shreve went around the nine-hole course in 45 strokes and Dick Markovich had a 55.

Mickey Cessna paced the losers with a 42. Bill Rouse chalked up a 61, Gary Bowden posted a 46 and Mike Crosser fired a 53.

Player's 66 Leads Greensboro Tourney

By KEN ALYTA

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — A first round Greater Greensboro

Open golf tournament lead of one stroke on a five-under-par 66 is not to be sneezed at. But Gary Player, the little battler from South Africa, can't help it.

He's sneezing and sniffing his way around the Sedgefield Country Club course battling a severe hay fever attack, his first in seven months, while fending off the challenge of a field of 150 rivals.

Gary made it with the help of three pills and five handkerchiefs in Thursday's first round of the 72-hole, $35,000 affair.

His 32-34 round of five birdies and 13 pars put him a stroke ahead of Lionel Hebert, the former PGA champion who has been showing signs of snapping a year-long slump.

"My chipping was fantastic," Player noted. "I missed three greens, but chipped in from 35 feet for a birdie two on the third hole from a difficult position above the hole and almost holed two other chips on holes where I made my pars."

With Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus not here, Player is carrying the banner of the "big three" alone.

Six men shot 68 to trail Player by two strokes. They included Jay Hebert, brother of Lionel; Doug Sanders, Jimmy Clark, Tom Aaron, Stan Leonard and Bob Charles, southpaw from New Zealand.

Robbyn's Knoll Women Golfers Plan Meeting

During the session teams will be formed and a schedule will be drawn up.

Anyone interested in competing in the league this year should attend the meeting or call Mrs. Bruce Whitcomb of 1650 Southeast Blvd.

Royals Are Sold To Buffalo Group
CINCINNATI (AP) — Emprise Corp. of Buffalo, N.Y., has bought control of the Cincinnati Royals and the Cincinnati Gardens where they play in reported $500,000 deal.

Although the sale was announced late last month, the final contracts and paperwork weren't completed until lawyers for Emprise and the Thomas E. Wood estate acted Thursday.

The sale paves the way for Warren Hensel, wealthy Cincinnati businessman, to acquire control of the pro basketball team under an agreement with Louis M. Jacobs, operator of Emprise.

Thursday's sale involved 1,040 shares, or 56 per cent, in the Royals and 20,000 shares, or 40 per cent, in the Gardens. Emprise already held 40 per cent in the Gardens.

Trustees of Wood's estate had operated the team with little change since his death two years ago.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

A word from THERON at the Country Store

I just had a rather unusual experience. It was Sunday morning about 8:30. A fellow in a Plymouth sedan pulled up to the door. He shook the front door so hard I thought he would break it. He shouted you cannot depend on this guy, he is never open.

On Sundays we advertise open at noon. Actually we unlock the door at eleven. Every other day we open promptly at 6 in the morning and remain open till 1 the next morning, 19 hours daily. This is a total of 131 hours a week. We would like to see all our customers go to church Sunday mornings. I think it makes better customers out of most of them.
